SFOS CELEBRATE KATERI FEAST ON TUSCARORA RESERVATION

Each year on July 14, Secular Franciscans gather on the Tuscarora Indian Reservation to celebrate the feast day of Blessed Kateri Tekakwitha. Hosted by St. Anthony Fraternity in Lockport and assisted by Our Lady of Angels Fraternity in Niagara Falls/Lewiston, Holy Family Chapel was filled to capacity.

Fr. Peter Calabrese, pastor and a Barnabite priest, offered the Mass for over 50 Secular Franciscans. Parishioners filled the remaining places in the chapel.

In attendance also were members from other Western New York fraternities – St. Thomas More, St. Joseph and St. Francis/Athol Springs. After mass, parishioners hosted a meal in the church hall, featuring Indian recipes.

'ST. PETER' JOINS FRANCISCANS AT FONDA

Some 90 to 100 people from at least nine fraternities converged on the Kateri National Shrine in Fonda on Sunday, Aug. 15, for the annual Secular Franciscan Day.

They ranged from inquirers to those who have been professed for 70 years.

The day started with Mass, with celebrant Fr. Patrick Gallagher, OFM Conv., giving a homily on the Blessed Mother and the Feast of the Assumption.

Following mass, Regional Minister Mary Frances Charsky, SFO, welcomed everyone, then introduced four other members of the Regional Executive Council and the ministers of nine fraternities.

FRATERNITIES GET COURSE IN PLANNING FORMATION EVENTS

Fraternity formation teams got a crash course in how to plan for days of reflection or retreats, thanks to the Alma Kraus Memorial Formation Workshop held Oct. 8-10 at Stella Maris Retreat Center in Skaneateles, NY.

Former National Formation Co-Chair Teresa Baker, SFO, guided some 45 formation directors, ministers and other Secular Franciscans from some 25 fraternities through a "Praxis" activity, where they saw how to build a lesson plan around a practical activity. In her example, she had them reflect on the San Damiano Cross and ultimately asked them to make a small life-changing choice in their spiritual life or in how they live the Secular Franciscan Rule.

Participants spent much of the second day developing the pieces for their own customized days of reflection, and then, as an added treat, Baker presented them with Giotto's frescoes, which highlight the life of St. Francis at the Basilica of St. Francis in Assisi where the saint is entombed. In viewing some of the life-changing events in Francis' life, she asked participants to zero in on events in their own lives that they related to individual frescoes, and to reflect on each event and how it led to change in their life today.

The workshop was sponsored and funded by the Alma Kraus Fund at St. Bonaventure University. Alma Kraus was a Secular Franciscan from the cess full circle. The idea that we can teach as Jesus did/does with the parables is wonderful."

Regional Spiritual Assistant Richard Trezza, OFM, offered daily mass and participated in a closing panel discussion. Father Richard gave an overview of what the National

Formation Team is planning, including a 2011 national formation workshop to introduce guidelines from the international and national fraternities. Titled "Forming the Formators," that national workshop takes place May 12-15 at Our Lady of Snows, Belleville, IL

HOME IS WHERE THE HEART IS

Here we are in another season of Lent. By now, Secular Franciscans have come to know these forty days as a microcosm of their Seraphic world. As Brothers and Sisters of Penance, everyday is Lent. Why? Because penance is a way of life for the professed Secular. Here I encourage and challenge you to see penance as much more than just a single act of self-denial. Penance is much more than a string of isolated acts of mortification.

During this liturgical season, much is made of the symbol of the desert. Remember that Jesus' public ministry had its beginnings in the desert after a fast of forty days and forty nights. That lonely place, that desolate place is the preferred place which God chooses to speak, in dramatic ways, to the human heart.

Without distraction the soul in the desert is completely naked before its Creator. It comes to know the spiritual realities with raw honesty. It is uncomfortable because we cannot endure the "real" us for too long. While the rest of the Church takes the time to look at itself during Lent, the Secular Franciscan finds the desert as a home where the Franciscan heart comes to life. And why not? God is there.

While we are there, we pray and dialogue with God. We fast, constantly making room for the Divine in our lives by forcing out of our hearts those encumbrances which make it difficult for us to recognize God in the mix. We give alms and turn our thoughts to the needs of our sisters and brothers. There are acts of charity to perform and sacrifices to make for one another – both for the living and the dead.

If we spend our time well in the desert, we come to realize that we are home. There is no other place we would rather be. We are at our most honest selves

– we become real to God, ourselves and others. Our experience of prayer is sweet and we show that we truly believe in what we say we believe in because we are always living our faith in the service of others.

For Franciscans, this is a way of life. This IS penance. It is not drudgery. It is not the enduring of a period of forty interminable days. It is the stuff which Lent is made of. But we are not meant to remain in the desert. We will be called out of that privileged place to be taken up to heaven to join Jesus whose resurrection from the dead changes us dramatically so that we may share that divine life forever.

Easter is the end of the desert experience for most. For Franciscans, Easter is the moment which plays itself out no matter where we are. We are Christians only because we always remember Christ in His resurrected mode. This is how He relates to us. He transcends all we know which is of a temporary nature. The Easter miracle places us in that very real place where we take advantage of the hope of eternal life. As Franciscans we are called to bring that hope to others by the way we live out our Profession.

But it all begins with our perpetual Franciscan Lent. May the Lord grace us with the courage to make a good journey this year. May His grace help us to realize that our hearts are wherever we can come face to face with our loving God and allow others to do the same.

SFO DAYS IN ATHOL SPRINGS AND CATSKILL

An SFO Day in the Western Area last July 24 was hosted by St. Francis Fraternity in Athol Springs and featured a workshop on Justice, Peace and Integrity of Creation (JPIC) by then-JPIC Chair Mary Stronach, SFO. She also gave an Ad Hoc Panel update. BELOW: Participants took part small-group discussions during the seminar.

NEWLY PROFESSED AT BUFFALO FRATERNITY

Michael D. Catalano made his profession into the Secular Franciscan Order on Nov. 14 as a member of St. Joseph Fraternity in Buffalo.

The mass and rite of profession took place at

Our Lady of the Angels Convent of the Sisters of St. Francis (OSF) in Williamsville.

ELEMENTS OF FRATERNITY-BUILDING

While the guidelines for establishing new fraternities specify a minimum of five professed members as a condition for granting forming group status, this critically low number is not intended to be the norm in determining fraternity size. It is used in the expectation that the group will grow in numbers in a reasonable length of time.

This assumes, also, that conditions are favorable for such growth, that a real potential is there, and therefore, little risk of failure will be taken. Furthermore, the mere fact of five professed members does not, in itself, impose an obligation on the higher council to grant the status that is petitioned. Other factors are also carefully weighed. In the end, it is the sole responsibility of the higher council to evaluate the progress, development and worth of the enterprise and, unhampered from outside, conscientiously to come to its decision, in favor of, or against, approval.

In the most recent local council elections in our region, the vital importance of relatively higher numbers has been demonstrated when, in so many instances, the election committees were hard-pressed to find enough capable nominees who could accept the responsibility of elective office. In most such instances the “bare bones” stipulations of the present Constitutions were met, with little or nothing to spare. It is really an undesirable situation when fraternities are strapped to this extent, for essential leadership.

In past decades under the preceding Rule and Constitutions, the Secular Franciscan Order (then, Third Order of St. Francis) was seen in a different light, while its doors were open to all Catholic people who were seriously attempting to reform their lives. Today, under the Pauline Rule, in a vastly different social climate, we are obliged to discern vocations to the Franciscan life – so we screen inquirers and observe candidates in the process of formation. This screening, by its very nature, tends to lower the number of those who may be admitted. As councils learn by doing, that number may drop even lower – and, perhaps, this may be a good thing.

Because we are accepting only those who demonstrate a vocation, we must be all the more certain that the communities we assemble are in a definitely more viable condition – robust enough to withstand whatever difficulties the new millennium may bring with it. No longer will the fraternity be a convenient haven for mutual support of its members, as in the past. Beyond that, it will have to be a dynamo of spiritual energy that will carry the community through the difficult times and the austere – making its influence felt in the family, the neighborhood and in the workplace.

While the trend in declining friar numbers continues, the Seculars, themselves, will be called upon to nurture their confreres, to provide optimum formation for those they attract and to maintain proper internal discipline. Only by standing firmly on solid ground will the Order hold its own and hope to survive and prosper, maintaining its own integrity. This solid ground must be the sound formation of its members, convening in a carefully assembled fraternity – with the blessing of the Lord.

For the benefit of the minority who nostalgically prefer a fraternity that is small in numbers, it should be pointed out that Christian gatherings that are faithful to their mission – that openly live out their vocation – cannot fail to attract a following. Franciscans, moreover, are called, not for their own benefit, but for the sake of others. If for a time no vocations are realized, we ought not be disappointed, but look at ourselves, our outreach, our mission – then take corrective measures. Vocations cannot be imparted by teaching; they are a free gift from God.

Finally, all of us have, at one time or another, prayed for vocations to the priesthood and to religious life. In the future, let us continue to do so, but let us not fail to pray, with equal fervor and sincerity, for vocations to Secular Franciscan life!
